WRITING

Once I appeared in an unknown place, the weather seemed not to abate in few next hours: virtually, it was a dark, pre-dawn fog. Suddenly, awe and anxiety started rousing within: 'I wish it was a nightmare' - that was the very first, inner hope within me.

After a few minutes of meaningless walk inside this infinite fog, I heard a human voice, begging: 'Help me, I've injured my leg! ~~Do my miserable fate!~~ ^{miserable} Gods, have mercy on me!' - so I decided to approach to the voice to help the stranger.

When I finally found out where the human had been, I realized ~~that~~ ^{I was} familiar with him... Or, at least, he's familiar to me. It turned to be a serious damage his poor leg has received. He was absolutely numb and couldn't move. While I was helping him to stand up, he was mumbling and moaning, it not saying: shrieking.

And there is the 'agende' of the story. When he eventually stood up and his capability to move was recovered, we went farther in the fog, introducing ourselves to each other.

After this happened, I recognized him: Socrates!
As soon as I started to staring at him, he suddenly disappeared, and then I woke up and realized that the whole thing had been a dream.
